The official website of your department i.e <http://peso.gov.in> is a very well conceived and designed site. The site has information about the various rules, addresses and contact details of the PESO offices in India. Application forms are available on the site and details of fees to be paid while applying for the licences is also available.

The Public domain website of the department is very useful as we can track the status of our application. The receipt of the application, tentative date of approval, approval status of the application is available on the website. The availability of the vast information on the website has helped in a lot of ways. Before applying for any licence, the correct form and exact amount of fees payable can be checked from the website and unnecessary delays can be avoided. In the absence of the website, the applicant had to follow up for the status of the application but now all the information is available on the website.

In the present era of IT and computerization, the initiative of computerization taken by your department is a step in the right direction and has certainly helped in a faster approval process.

Thanking You

Very truly yours
